

Guests in God's World

In today's world, as we face daily challenges of violence and live amidst harsh and shrill voices, more than ever, we need to rekindle Christian hospitality. After all, Christ, the Son of God, came to dwell in our world 2000 years ago and remains with us still – especially in the least of our brothers and sisters.

Msgr. John Zenz will help us reflect on Christian hospitality by reviewing several writings including The Shack, Immaculee Ilibagiza's autobiography Left to Tell and Pope Benedict's Encyclical on the Economy.

October 6th Hospitality of Healing:
Learning to be "At Home" with a Forgiving God discussion of the novel The Shack

October 13th Hospitality of Space:
Discovering "Space" for God and Neighbor discussion of the autobiography Left to Tell

October 20th Hospitality of Stewardship:
"Shared Space"
insight from Pope Benedict's Encyclical on the Economy

October 27th Hospitality of Heart:
"Too Small a World" – Global Compassion on the Local Level
reflection upon the need to go inward and outward;
being ever more conscious of the needs of our world
